

PATHWAYS- WINTER SCENE

PASTELS

GLYN OVERTON

Thursday 8th February 2024 - 10am - 4pm

Pathways lead you into the picture and make you wonder where they are going and who has travelled that way before. Winter offers a range of weather options too, from snow and ice, fog and mist, heavy rain or maybe a bright crisp day offering ideal potential for a walk. Bare Winter trees have a character of their own which often becomes concealed during the Summer months. This workshop will be suitable for beginners and those who are already proficient in the medium and techniques and mark making possibilities will be explained as well as guidance on the use of colour and perspective. A fun exploration of the medium.

MATERIALS

Coloured pastel paper - grey, neutral, dark blue or brown

Soft Pastels Pastel pencils. Putty rubber. Masking tape

Some images will be provided but others may be found in Magazines, Pinterest and Google images.
